

Sally the nice girl

Last Sunday, Sally and her father went to a cinema to watch a film.

They were queuing up at the ticket office when they saw a balloon on the floor.

Then Sally picked it up and asked, 'Whose balloon is this?'

'I think it's his,' Dad pointed to a boy, 'The boy with the short curly hair.'

'Oh, I see,' Sally said, 'I'll give this balloon back to him.'

Sally was approaching the boy when his mother came and took him into the movie room. Therefore, Sally ran to them. However, she ran so slowly that she could not reach them. Luckily, Sally's dad had bought the tickets already so they got inside and gave the balloon back to the boy.

Finally, the boy thanked Sally gratefully. Sally was overjoyed too.

