A Typhoon Day

16th September, 2018

Friday

Today is a typhoon day. Mangkhut comes. It has brought a lot of damages to Hong Kong. In the morning, Typhoon Signal No.10 has been hoisted by the Hong Kong Observatory. Although we were at home, we could still feel the power of this typhoon. We watched the arrival of Mangkhut on TV at home.

At noon, the power of the typhoon did not decrease but strengthened. We could see from TV that many low-lying areas were seriously flooded.

At night, the power of the typhoon has gradually decreased but the trees on the roadside have been severely damaged by the typhoon.

Today is a day full of panic. I hope that those damaged places can be restored as soon as possible.
