

An accident

1st October, 2018

Sunny

Dad and I went to Mong Kok this afternoon. I was thirsty, so I went to buy bubble tea with Dad. There were a lot of people, so we need to line up to pay. Behind us, there were a woman and her son standing next to the bus stop.

Suddenly, the boy's volleyball was thrown to the road because the boy didn't pay attention. The boy ran out of the road and tried to catch the ball. However, a bus came at that time. The boy's mother screamed and asked her son to come back immediately.

Luckily, the boy listened to his mum and gave up catching the ball. After that, his mum punished him and asked him to be careful.
