My day at the bookshop

Yesterday, I went to buy a comic at a bookshop. There were a lot of comics on the shelves and all the comics costed thirty dollars only.

I wanted to buy a funny comic. I searched the whole shelf once and I found a comic with a photo of monkey, it looked very funny so I took it and paid at cahier.

There was a long queue. I took out fifty dollars to pay for it and I waited patiently.

After fifteen minutes, I went back home. When I took money out of my pocket, I found that the staff made a mistake, I gave the cashier fifty dollars but she gave me back fifty dollars, it must be twenty dollars! I didn't know what to do at that moment.

Suddenly, Mom came back from the market, she saw I was dazed and asked, 'What's problem, why are you standing here?' I told her the issue and she asked me to return the money to the bookshop. I told the staff about the mistake. At the end, the cashier thanked me and praised that I was a kind people. What an unforgettable day.
